in first half, dreamer is just hanging out, not sure of the situation or the friend, but by being present has positioned herself for change

Dream Text:

I am in a big car, convertible, almost the size of a tank. There is no breeze, but the car is going 80 mph. I am facing forward, and there is a friend facing me, and we are at a small table in the car, playing cards. I knew she was beating me in this friendly card game, and I was sipping on a half glass of white wine. I started to ask her if she was drinking too and realized we were going 80 (because somehow she was driving even though not facing the front of the car or had a steering wheel) but then knew she wasn't drinking, and told her my thoughts. At once, I realized I had one card in my hand, and that I could go out. It was the 5 of spades. I had a red three of something (the only color in the dream), and put that down so I could win with the spade. She asked me if I had the 2nd 5 of spades; when I looked, sure enough, I had both. Then I woke up.

fast, but ok - not out of control dreamer is relaxed and at ease, social social activity and place of connection between friend and dreamer

holy spirit

so is there an absence of the spirit?

feels beat down by god

powerful, in control, but focused on the dreamer established, safety and encouraging grace to speak the truth - to be real w/the friend prudence, self control of dreamer enjoying (sipping) wine of the spirit. light hearted connection - not heavy.

What would you title the dream?
(helps to unlock the essence of the dream)
